

11. Castlewood House, Kerry

Dingle may be one of Ireland's most popular destinations, but November is a month where you can enjoy some excellent value in the town.

My top tip is to stay in the peerless Castlewood House, run by hospitality maestros Brian Heaton and Helen Woods Heaton.

The property offers a luxury hotel standard with its rooms and its breakfasts, perennially voted one of Ireland's best, a delight.

Castlewood lies a short stroll to all the action in Dingle, while being the perfect base for a road-trip along the remarkable Slea Head.

This special property closes in December and January for winter, so grab an exceptional value break available throughout November with rates from €125.
